(Q47-50)

Most children know the folk tales told by Jacob and Wilhelm Grimm. The brothers, born in Germany, in 1785 and 1786, traveled throughout the country to collect old stories. They became the first to write them down. They did so not to entertain children but to teach adults about the culture of the past. They were shocked that their first book, Nursery and Household Tales, attracted both children and adults. All their lives they never stopped to become disappointed when people thought their collections, that covered so much material, as children's literature (文學).

The Complete Brothers Grimm Fairy Tale contains such famous stories as "Snow White," "Cinderella," and "The Frog Prince." Children love these stories, but many of them in the original collections were too frightening for children. Writers who translated the stories from German often made them more suitable for young readers.

47. () How did the Brothers Grimm get their stories?
 (A) Their parents told them. (B) They gathered around Germany.
 (C) They created on their own. (D) They heard from travelers.
48. () Why did Brothers Grimm write the stories?
 (A) To pass the exam. (B) To entertain children. (C) To teach adults. (D) To shock people.
49. () Which of the following story is not included in the complete Brothers Grimm Fairy Tale?
